2. Conference Poster (1 copy)

The School of Nursing, Mae Fah Luang University, is pleased to announce the International Conference entitled “Global Health for Equity: Bridging Divides Through Innovation, Data, and Human Care”, which will be held from 27–29 January 2027 at Mae Fah Luang University, Chiang Rai, Thailand. The conference aims to provide an international platform for the exchange of knowledge, academic work, research findings, and professional experiences in education, research, and professional practice. It also seeks to strengthen academic collaboration among institutions and professional networks at both national and international levels.

In this regard, the School of Nursing, Mae Fah Luang University, would be grateful for your kind assistance in publicizing this conference among the personnel within your organization and inviting interested individuals to participate. Eligible participants may claim registration fees and other related expenses in accordance with their respective institutional regulations and government policies. Attendance at the conference may also be considered an official duty and not counted as leave, subject to the regulations of their organizations.

Further information and online registration are available at <https://mfu2027.mfu.ac.th/>

We would greatly appreciate your kind consideration and support in disseminating this information. Thank you very much for your cooperation.

Yours sincerely,
